TFX LANCHES NEW WEBSITE

Oxnard California, May 10, 2010 – Trans FX Inc (TFX) launches new website. The updated website reflects the company’s new capabilities and supported industries. TFX has two distinct divisions offering customer support, Aerospace Fabrication and Creative Fabrication. The site has extensive project galleries as well as insight to the company’s history, mission and core competencies. In addition to the website, TFX can be found and followed on Facebook (trans fx) and twitter.

“Allen Pike, President and CEO said, “The new site better showcases all the industries we serve with galleries and information. In recent years we have grown significantly and offer support to a variety of customers that was not accurately represented in the previous website. The new website allows current and potential customers to see how diversified and successful we are in other industries. Besides our website, visit us on Facebook and Twitter, here you’ll find ongoing news and information related to projects we are working on.”
